

France Pays Highest Funeral Honors to Herrick

Tribute Could Have Been More Marked and Deeply Impressive Only With Marshal Foch—Embarked by General Pershing, Spanish Ambassador and Premier Poincare.

Paris, April 4 (P).—France paid an American, Ambassador Myron T. Herrick in death today, funeral honors such as many of the great ones of her own sons have not received.

Beginning with funeral orations by Premier Poincare and General Pershing at the American Embassy there were set in motion ceremonies which were to culminate in the slow passage of the Atlantic by the French Cruiser Tourville, bearing the body of the Ambassador back to his native land.

Thousands crowded the streets about the Embassy, standing with bare bowed heads in the clear, cold sunlight, while inside a sparse throng of men—all for whom there was room—listened to the eulogies of the American whom France regarded as her friend more than any other since Benjamin Franklin.

It was the second time in ten days Frenchmen had been called upon to pay tribute to the hero of one they loved, and, with Marshal Foch alone could that tribute have been more marked and deeply impressive, probably, than was the case today.

Guard Stationed Along Funeral Route.

At 9 a. m., an hour before the service at the Embassy, detachments of the Republican Guard took their stations along the route the cortege was to follow to the American Cathedral, while police lined the streets about the Embassy.

Troops massed in the place Des Etoiles and the band of the 49th Infantry Regiment with drums draped and instruments muffled stood by ready to take their place at the head of the line of march.

Members of the Embassy staff, who regarded Ambassador Herrick almost as a father, were among the first to make their way through the line of police into the Embassy Court. Just a moment before the ceremony inside the Embassy was to start, General Pershing and former Ambassador Jusserand arrived, together, and entered the building.

The house itself bore no signs of mourning, not even a flag at half mast. Only drawn blinds hinted at the grief within.

"He Was My Friend," Says Pershing.

General Pershing spoke first. Attired in his full uniform with a sash of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, he looked aged and worn from the loss of his two personal friends—Marshal Foch and the ambassador—within two weeks.

His voice trembled as he said, "he was my friend."

General Pershing recalled the ambassador's remaining in Paris in the dark days of 1914 and called him "our first volunteer when he said 'if there should be no one left, but an ambassador to defend Paris, I shall be that one.'"

General Pershing was following by Quinones de Leon, Spanish ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps, who praised the high qualities of loyalty and patriotism which he said would make Ambassador Herrick's work live in the history of humanity.

Poincare Shows Emotion.

Premier Poincare was the last of the three distinguished speakers. The French premier is a man who is complete master of his emotions but his hand shook visibly as he took up his speech and began reading it.

The coffin, covered by the stars and stripes, lay in the middle of the salon between two windows. General Pershing, Premier Poincare, St. Quinones de Leon, Mrs. Parmely Herrick and Herrick's secretary, Madame Salmelberg, and the Embassy staff stood to the right. To the left were Marshals Petain and Franchet d'Esperey, General Gouraud, Owen D. Young, and Ridgley Carter.

Services at Cathedral.

The solemn cortege to the American pro-cathedral and the religious ceremony there were in keeping with the program at the embassy. All was of utmost simplicity with an impression of grandeur and heartfelt sincerity. Among those at the church was Elihu Root, who joined the pallbearers there. Root had come to Paris from Geneva to visit Herrick, but he arrived too late to see his old friend again in life.

Dean Beckman read the usual Episcopal service for the dead in the presence of as many people as could crowd into the church. Then all was over but the honors still to be paid to the ambassador's body at Brest, where the cruiser Tourville waited to carry it across the waters to the ambassador's home land.

Mrs. Parmely Herrick, daughter-in-law of the ambassador, after leaving the church went to the tomb of the unknown soldier under the Arc de Triomphe and there in the name of the ambassador, laid a wreath upon the grave.

Barge Canal Opens Friday

Twenty-eight boats comprising the first westbound fleet enroute through the Barge canal are due in Albany today from New York, in preparation for the raising of the flag starting the 1929 season at noon Friday, says the Knickerbocker Press. The opening date is the earliest in 101 years.

Reports to the state canal authorities indicate the 1929 season will shatter the previous records. Twenty-five new canal boats have been constructed during the winter; a new lumber distribution center has been established at Buffalo to handle Pacific coast lumber; sugar will show a big increase in western movement, and a rise of interest is being felt in the opportunities of the canal from the Great Lakes region to the seaboard.

The Cornell Towing company announced that it has increased its fleet from the eight tugs operated last season to fifteen tugs, many of which are of Diesel propulsion. Cornell officials reported they will handle twenty-two cargo fleets this season, as compared with thirteen fleets last year.

McLoughlin Head Of Y's Men's Club

Annual Election Held Tuesday Evening—Fred Van Deusen Retiring President, Presented With Memento From Club Members.

It kept the Kingston Y's Men's Club busy Tuesday evening congratulating bridegrooms, welcoming guests, electing new officers and directors and bidding the old ones farewell but they still found time to indulge in plenty of peppy singing under the leadership of Tom Rowland with Dan Bittner at the piano, and in between times smoke the cigars which Clarence Wolfersteig passed out and to enjoy the fine dinner and good fellowship.

Charles Ramsey was given a hearty welcome home on his first meeting since returning from Florida. He told the men that he would have attended some Y's Men's meetings in Florida but the nearest club was 230 miles from where he was stopping so it was out of the question to visit any of them, much to his regret.

George Hutt introduced as his guest his brother, Walter Hutt of Middletown, who drove George all the way to Kingston especially to attend this meeting. It was also brought out that Edwin Longacre had driven all day from Richmond, Va., to get to Kingston in time for this meeting. Seward Salisbury, who for the past two weeks visited the Cortland, N. Y., club, gave a splendid report of the meetings which that live Y's Men's club was enjoying. The fellows certainly appreciate this spirit of loyalty which makes them so confident of winning the attendance competition with the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

The men were glad to have Rotarian Frank Thompson and Kiwanian Chester Baltz as their guests, they being introduced by Charles Ramsey. Merton McLoughlin introduced J. A. Patterson of Albany as his guest and Chester Hall introduced Alfred C. Estes of the financial bureau of the National Y. M. C. A. council. They were all given a royal Y's Men's welcome.

The percentage of attendance was 91.6 as Captain Clarence Wolfersteig, Stanley Winne and Arthur Quimby reported their teams as one hundred per cent present. Dr. Gifford and Tom Rowland reported one absentee each and Clarence Dumm reported two absentees.

Two Bridegrooms Present.

The club had the pleasure of having two bridegrooms present. Clarence Wolfersteig and Clair Sheaffer, and they were both given hearty congratulations as only Y's Men know how to give. Clarence Dumm, in passing out the cigars which Clarence Wolfersteig had provided in celebration of the big event gave a very clever and witty speech.

Before turning the meeting over to the nominating committee for the purpose of electing new officers for the new year, President Fred VanDeusen expressed his appreciation of the work of the officers and members of the board of directors who go out of office with him, thanking them for the loyal support they had given him. He also thanked the members of the club for their splendid support. He expressed his hearty appreciation of the support which John C. Porter, once secretary of the Y. M. C. A., had given the club, stating that the cooperation given by him was wonderful.

Retiring President VanDeusen was taken entirely by surprise when John C. Porter on behalf of the members of the club in appreciation of the services he had rendered throughout the year in a very neat speech presented him with a beautiful fountain pen and pencil and also a diary. President VanDeusen stated that he appreciated highly this token of appreciation and thanked the members for their thoughtfulness. He said he would always look back with a great deal of pleasure to the very pleasant year he had spent as their president as he had enjoyed his term of office more than words could express and the new officers would find it a real pleasure to work with such an enthusiastic and splendid group of fellows.

Officers Elected.

The meeting was then turned over to the club's three past presidents, John H. Haulenbeck, first president, James Scott, second president, and Dr. Julian I. Gifford, third president. Dr. Gifford acting as chairman, appointed George Hutt and Lester Finley as tellers. In a very fine speech, for which the doctor is noted, he announced the committee's recommendations. The following officers were then unanimously elected: Merton McLoughlin, president; Clarence Dumm, first vice-president; Clair Sheaffer, second vice-president; Stanley Winne, third vice-president; N. LeVanHaver, secretary, and J. C. Fraser, treasurer.

The new officers were then duly installed by Dr. Gifford.

Six new directors were also elected as follows: Lester Finley, Dr. Julian I. Gifford, John H. Haulenbeck, Ernest LeFevre, Arthur Quimby and Fred VanDeusen.

The club is in a very flourishing condition, the best it has been since its organization, and they confidently look forward to a successful year.

The dinner was thoroughly enjoyed and was prepared as usual by the Misses Davenport. The men appreciated having the following young ladies serve: Misses Alma Quimby, Edith Quimby, Shirley Merrill and Doris Willmott.

The entertainment committee for next week will be Watson Bailey, William Niles and Warren Smith. A fine program is expected from this committee and it is hoped that a one hundred per cent meeting will greet the new officers.

Wet Victory in Wisconsin Grows

Madison, Wis., April 4 (P).—The effort to repeal Wisconsin's prohibition enforcement law moved to the state legislature today bearing a two-to-one endorsement from voters in Tuesday's election.

Both those favoring repeal and those opposing it concentrated their attention on the state capital, the wet demanding prompt action as a result of their poll triumph, the drys equally anxious to turn election defeat into legislative victory.

The latest returns of the referendum to repeal the state prohibition enforcement act gave: Yes, 277,404; No, 145,299. The vote on legalization of 2.75 per cent beer was: Yes, 258,764; No, 148,131. These totals included 2,033 of the 2,759 precincts.

The election was merely an expression of opinion and not a mandate to the legislature. However, bills which would carry out the wishes of the majority of the people, as expressed in the referendum, have already been introduced.

"The legislature will never pass a repealer bill," countered the Rev. Warren G. Jones, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

Dry Agents Visit North Front St.

The federal agents from the local enforcement office extended their operations to the uptown section of the city Wednesday night when they visited the soft drink place of Peter Masisi at 120 North Front street. The agents, armed with search warrants, inspected the premises and there they allege they found considerable stuff which they failed to classify as "soft."

They allege they found a quantity of apple jack and beer and as a result placed Peter Masisi under arrest charging him with violating the national prohibition law. The defendant was later released in the custody of his counsel, A. J. Cook, for a hearing today before United States Commissioner A. C. Connelly.

This is the second raid in the city this week. The other visits were made in the lower section of the city and on Central Broadway. For some time the agents have been confining their efforts to out of town places but the past week they have been giving their attention to local places with considerable success.

When the agents entered the Masisi place they found the place fitted out in the front as a restaurant and by a clever arrangement of the fittings the bar, which was at the rear, was concealed from the front. On the bar the agents claim to have found full equipment for the dispensing of drinks and the fittings were modern and up to date.

While the agents were in the place and before they had executed their warrant two local citizens appeared in the place and ordered drinks. After the raid had been made and the agents were searching the place another citizen entered and stepping up to the bar behind which one of the agents was busy taking samples, ordered up a drink. It is not necessary to say he was surprised when the man behind the bar disclosed his identity as a federal enforcement agent.

Investors Sue for Losses in Florida

New York, April 4 (P).—Suit for $1,450,000 was filed in the Supreme court today by Maximilian Morgenthau, son of the former ambassador to Turkey, and 92 other investors in Boca Raton real estate in Florida against T. Coleman DuPont, Jesse L. Livermore and 12 others who were officers of the Mizner Development Corporation.

The complaint charges that the project netted $9,000,000 in sales, although the Mizner Corporation went into involuntary bankruptcy in May, 1927, with assets of only $56,000.

The elaborate development program which called for a hotel, canals for ranches, aviation fields, theatres, night clubs and similar enterprises was merely a scheme to sell the public lots at prices greatly in excess of their value, the complaint says.

REPUBLICAN PUBLICITY DIRECTOR APPOINTED.

New York, April 4 (P).—H. Edmund Machold, chairman of the Republican State Committee, today announced the appointment of George B. Snell, veteran Albany legislative correspondent, as publicity director of the Republican State Committee. During the last two sessions of the legislature, Snell has been manager of the Gannett Newspaper Bureau of the New York Sun. He will take charge of the bureau April 5.

The card party that was to have been held Saturday afternoon at the rooms on Henry street by Vanderlin Council has been postponed to Saturday, April 12, at 2 o'clock that afternoon.

Amendments to Education Law

Gov. Roosevelt Signs Bills Relating to School Buses, Voting Machines at School Meetings and Many Other Educational Matters.

Albany, April 4 (P).—A bill to assure safety for rural school children transported by school busses has been signed by Governor Roosevelt, he announced today. The bill provides that the contracts made by operators of school busses must be in writing and approved by the school superintendent. It also requires that the school superintendents must investigate the type of the vehicle and the character and ability of the driver before giving approval to the contract.

Another measure approved by the governor requires the use of voting machines at school meetings in the union of free school districts in any county. The law now limits the use of machines to counties of not less than 200,000 and not more than 400,000 population, which adjoin New York city.

Boards of Education in cities of less than 50,000 population will be allowed to borrow money on the credit of the districts in anticipation of money to be received as state aid under the provisions of another newly-enacted law.

Holidays will be included and Saturdays not counted in the 190-day public school term under another amendment to the education law.

Other Amendments.

The Governor also signed several other measures amending the education law to provide:

That no school director shall take part in the election of a candidate for district superintendent if he is related to the candidate.

That medical licenses issued to citizens of foreign countries who have been naturalized within ten years shall be rescinded. The present period is six years.

That each city and free school district having vocational schools be given fifty dollars a year by the state for instruction of non-resident pupils.

The county boards maintaining vocational, educational and extension work shall not incur liabilities against county funds in excess of appropriations with regard to state aid to such counties.

That the board of regents may endorse certificates of rehabilitation of United States Veterans' Bureau as a license to practice any of the professions coming under the regulations of the regents' board.

That a board of higher education having jurisdiction over part of a public school system in a city district shall report to the education commissioner and receive state aid.

That industrial teachers in training departments of state normal schools and colleges for teachers shall be classified by the education department.

INDIANA ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE HEAD SERVES TERM.

Putnamville, Ind., April 4 (P).—Rev. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, was released from the state penal farm this morning after serving 53 days of a sixty-day sentence for contempt of the Indiana supreme court. Seven days were stricken off the sentence for good behavior.

The veteran prohibition leader was all smiles when he was formally discharged. He termed his incarceration "an interesting experience" and said most of the bootleggers he met in the penal institution had admitted they had done wrong and intended to "go straight."

The state supreme court held Shumaker in contempt when he caused to be published in the Anti-Saloon League's official organ articles which attributed prejudice to certain members of the court in decisions on liquor appeal cases.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Holcomb, Haines, Richmond Park, a son, Robert Earl, at Kingston Hospital.

Woman Held on Gambling Charge

Florence Coffey, aged 41 years of Highland, was held to await the action of the Dutchess county grand jury on the charge of being a common gambler in permitting Pennsylvania school boys to take chances on punchboards. The woman was arraigned in Poughkeepsie Wednesday before Judge Grubb and had a fine of $500. Mrs. Coffey was arrested on March 23.

In the hearing Wednesday four boys, members of grade 7A of School No. 10, testified that they had seen one or more of the punchboards taken in the raid. Three of the boys testified that they had played the boards and one of them had won as much as $8.75. Detective Leadbetter, who had confiscated the punchboards, testified that he had taken the boards at the store which she formerly owned.

The defense presented no witnesses, merely attempting to shake the testimony of the witnesses for the prosecution. Efforts to confuse the boys on the stand were unsuccessful.

Why Did Woman Fall Down Stairs?

She Claims Platform of Outside Stairway Sagged—House Owner Claims She Was Picking Apples From Nearby Tree—Case on Trial in Court.

An adjourned session of the March term of Supreme court was held this morning at the court house with Judge Staley presiding. As county court was in session in the court room, Judge Staley held his court in the supervisors' room.

The action on trial is one brought by Josephine Bollin of New Paltz against John A. Pruss. Plaintiff resided on the upper floor of a house and is suing for damages for injuries sustained when she fell down an outside stairway which she alleges was defective.

According to the plaintiff's story she was on her way down the steps to get a basket of wood. As she stepped on the platform it sagged and she was thrown down the stairs, receiving serious injuries. She alleges her hip and shoulder was badly injured.

The defendant claims that the accident was not due to any unsafe condition of the platform or steps but that instead of being on her way to get a basket of wood, the plaintiff, who is a heavy woman, was engaged in picking apples from the branches of a tree which grew near the steps. It is claimed that she was pulling the branches toward her in an effort to reach the apples and in so doing she leaned against the rail and the combined weight of the plaintiff and the additional strain put on the railing by reason of her pulling the branches toward her caused her to be thrown down and injured.

Defendant alleges that after the accident a pan in which she was picking apples was found on the ground near where she lay.

John W. Eckert and Peter H. Harp appear for the plaintiff and A. J. Cook and Frank Murray appear for the defendant.

Less Handshaking At White House

President Finds Himself Unable to Write Except With Difficulty After Shaking Hands With 1,775 People.

Washington, April 4 (P).—Word went out from the White House today to members of the House and Senate that they must be more considerate in sending their constituents to the executive mansion to march in the semi-weekly presidential handshaking line.

Yesterday 1,775 people filed through the executive office and grasped President Hoover's hand. The muscles of the hand became sore so that he was able to write only with great difficulty for some time afterward and he felt also that the handshaking had been a considerable strain upon him. Although the secret service agents keep the line moving at high speed, about 43 to the minute on an average, yesterday's reception occupied nearly three quarters of an hour of the President's time.

This, Hoover feels, is too much, and the legislators on Capitol Hill have been asked to limit themselves to 10 constituents at each reception. Yesterday one member of the Senate, Copeland of New York, sent 155 people to the White House with the necessary credentials, a letter of introduction to the President's secretary, George Akerson.

In previous administrations the reception was a daily fixture and it continued as such for several days under Hoover. But a short while after he took office he decided to hold receptions only on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Today, to give the chief executive a longer rest between receptions, the schedule was changed to Mondays and Thursdays and it was announced that in the near future the number would be reduced to one each week.

The President feels that the reception has acquired something of the force of tradition, symbolizing American democracy, and for this reason is reluctant to eliminate them.

Sears, Roebuck Contract Here Not Yet Closed

Blues in Family of Charles Kahn of Philadelphia Who Was to Erect Building and Lease it to Company, Has Held Up Deal.

A rumor which has been floating about for the past several days to the effect that Sears, Roebuck & Company forfeited its option on the Leventhal property on North Front street and would not build could not be definitely traced down today. Some time ago a contract was entered into between the representatives of that company and Mr. Leventhal, the owner of the property. At that time it was understood that this contract expired on March 1 and that on that date no definite action was taken.

It was stated today that although on March 1 no definite action was taken toward closing the deal, it had not fallen through, and representatives of the mail order firm were expected in town within a few days to take action. Communications to that effect have been exchanged between the interested parties. At Mr. Leventhal's place of business on Wall street Mr. Leventhal's son stated that his father was out and that they had no definite statement to give out but he confirmed the fact that there were negotiations going on toward the closing of the deal and that the location had not been abandoned by Sears, Roebuck & Company as it was rumored. Representatives of the firm were expected in town within a few days.

Company Made Announcement.

The announcement of fact that Sears, Roebuck & Company intended to build on the Leventhal property and conduct a retail store there was given to the public by the retail representative of the company after a contract had been entered into between representatives of the firm and Mr. Leventhal.

Plans for the building were in the hands of contractors for bids and local firms have figured on the job. The date for opening bids has passed but no announcement of what action was taken on the bids submitted has been given.

It is understood that illness in the immediate family of Charles Kahn of Philadelphia who was to erect and own the building and lease it to Sears, Roebuck & Company has also held up the closing of deals in other cities.

At the time the announcement was made that the firm was to open a retail store in Kingston it was stated that the site on North Front street had been personally selected and approved by President Wood and T. J. Carney, eastern regional manager for the firm.

ACTION FOR DENTAL WORK SETTLED IN COUNTY COURT.

An action on contract brought by Dr. T. Hampson Jones against Joseph Toffel which was scheduled for trial in county court Wednesday afternoon was announced as settled. Erwig appeared for the plaintiff and M. O. Auchmody for the defendant. The action grew out of dental work which Dr. Jones did for Mrs. Toffel.

MORROW WAS FINED $5. GERLACH CASE ADJOURNED.

This morning in police court Judge Shufeldt fined Joshua Morrow who is rooming at 60 Cedar street, $5 on his plea of disorderly conduct in using loud and profane language there on Wednesday evening.

The case of Benjamin Gerlach on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated, which was slated for trial was adjourned to April 11, with the understanding that it would be disposed of at that time.

New York—John McCormack, back from abroad, is flirting with the talkies. He has offers and is much interested since he heard an Al Johnson film.

Palm Beach—Florenz Ziegfeld thanks Arthur Hammerstein's plan of using canned music in musical comedy is absurd. "No real artist would ever think of singing with a mechanical instrument and no one who really loves the theatre would even consider such an intolerable arrangement."

Mexico City—Dolores Del Rio seems to have missed considerable wealth by her divorce from Jaime Martinez Del Rio Y Vincent. His estate is estimated at more than $1,000,000. All is left to his mother. Dolores has entered no claim. Divorce papers were filed in court with the will.

New York—Fabian Lavelle, 12 years old, arrested when attempting to sell on the street a quart of whiskey he found in an automobile, has been freed by Federal Commissioner Cotten. The boy was unable to spell whiskey when the commissioner asked him to. His parents were given a sharp warning to take care of him.

Newark, N. J.—Ambassador Morrow is to speak from Mexico over the radio tonight to seven banquets in New Jersey of the state Chamber of Commerce and the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company. Chances are that folks won't hear any wedding news by tuning in the WOR network.

Detroit—Just for little jaunts around Lawrence P. Fisher, motor car magnate, has bought a $100,000 aerial yacht which Eddie Rickenbacker says is as easy to handle as a baby carriage.

Chicago—John Landis wishes all bombers to know that he has bought the home of Charles Fitzmorris, former chief of police. The place has been bombed several times. Landis asked the papers to tell about the sale.

Washington—Some $5,150,000,000 worth of property is inherited annually in this country. The calculation is made by Joseph S. McCoy, government actuary.

"3 o'clock...school is out ...and all's well with my feet!"

PEOPLE think of school teaching as an easy job! It isn't at all. The hours are short—yes, but within those hours you have to give your best every minute.

"So you see I just can't afford to be tired. Even though I stand for the better part of 5 hours, I must always feel clear and fresh and comfortable. . . . Which is just another way of saying I must always have comfortable shoes. That is why I wear Cantilever Shoes. I have worn them for years. I wouldn't wear any other shoes, even if I got them for nothing! Thanks to Cantilevers—even at 3 o'clock, when school is over, my feet still feel fine.

"Cantilever Shoes are so comfortable, so glove-like in their fit, so wonderfully adaptable to standing and walking . . . and so good to look at—why shouldn't I be happy with them?"

Every pair of Cantilever Shoes is of finest quality and workmanship. Every pair will give you comfort and natural ease from the first step on . . . And every pair is designed with a true feeling for smart fashion, every pair expresses this season's mode of graceful, beautifully shaped footwear.

"Chasing facts on city pavements" "My work as a food investigator keeps me on my feet for many hours a day. "Naturally I must have shoes that will stand the strain—and be comfortable. That is why Cantilevers are the shoes for me. They are comfortable when I slip them on in the morning and still comfortable when I come back. They are wonderfully flexible and so perfectly proportioned that I get real pleasure from walking."

Every step I took was an effort. "The housework I had to do I did with difficulty, and as for walking or even going out at night—I never wanted to do it. "Cantilever Shoes have made all this change. They have helped my feet so much that now I haven't a foot trouble. I can now find pleasure in working and walking. I'll never wear anything but Cantilevers."

Old People Need a Spring Tonic

Father John's Medicine Builds New Strength

"It is not uncommon for old people to feel tired at the spring of the year. Their body energy is often at low ebb. They have not been getting quite the proper amount of nourishment from their food.

When this is so, they should at once begin to take a food medicine to strengthen the body and to nourish and enrich the blood.

Father John's Medicine is the best food tonic and is perfectly safe. It nourishes nerve and body tissue and builds up the resisting power so that the system is able to throw off poisonous waste matter. It acts as a very mild laxative. All pure food. Guaranteed free from dangerous drugs.

Smartness Marks Sports Fashions

Short or Long-Jacket Outfits Meet With General Approval

Smartness and simple the sports mode steps forth with just that tailored touch which Paris knows how to bestow. And whether the sportswoman approves the role of three or of two in her ensemble, whether she chooses a fur or furless coat, whether she dons a long or short jacket, she will meet with fashion's favor this spring. As for the sweaters never before were they so soft and feminine and yet so warm.

This season's vogue for the tuck-in sides and high waistline lends a boyish charm to Paris's three-piece ensembles. We are almost transported to the days of the cream-colored blouse and the plaits of the chestnut-colored kasha skirt. The long coat with its soft fur collar matches an almost invisible beige stripe in the skirt. The pocket follows the coat's diagonal line with chic of its own.

Very tall is a beige Molynaux two-piece with short jacket and jumper dress. Tiny plaited edge the wrap-around skirt, back and front, and the jumper tones down its gayly-colored stripes with a belt and cuffs of the coat material. The scarf is an essential part of every Parisian wardrobe.

Redfern charmingly combines youth and springtime in a capelet coat of light green homespun—that soft leaf-like green which Paris finds smart for early spring wear, especially when combined with so flippant a cape. The striking diagonal coat line is accentuated by a wide band cleverly repeated in collar and cuff and cape border.

Charming Spring Sports Suit With a Short Jacket.

you until it loses itself in true French fashion in a split cape back. As always, Paris keeps a place for the coat without fur and this can appear wherever sports are concerned with or without the popular red or silver fox scarf—Woman's Home Companion.

Prints in Fashion, but Popularity Up to Women

How far the vogue for prints goes this summer is up to the ladies, writes a Paris fashion correspondent. Paris shows them and Paris lets them alone. You choose your dressmaker accordingly in raffish Rue de la Paix and Champs Elysee clothes circles.

HARDER'S

While there are prize agencies among the new spring and summer styles, they are mostly all lean about. Not and less aggressive than those which preceded them. Small designs, subdued pastel colors on light grounds and other rich shades on dark grounds are the 1929 summer version. On the other hand, prints have spread into the middle and side fields and even appear on the informal natural-colored chambrays and saris, which promise to be one of the distinguishing styles of the summer.

Attractive Straw Hats

In Beige, Red and Blue

Quite out of the ordinary is a gay little hat of Italian straw in beige, red and blue, open mesh, with a band of red straw around the crown and forming the center top. The brim of plain beige straw is arranged in a cluster of plaits and bow of red in front and is piped with red silk. Several hats are made with the straw crown and brim plaited or tucked, and trimmed with ribbon of a different color. One from Rose Descat in natural ballbust droops all around and has wide velvet ribbon in a lovely shade of aquamarine blue, tipped with red, tied around the crown and knotted at one side. Paris creates a symphony in brown with a hat of brown manilla braid, mushroom shape, shorter in front, which he embroiders in different shades of brown silk.

This Fortune Teller Out of the Ordinary

"Of course I don't believe in fortune tellers and all that stuff, but I went to him just out of curiosity. Betty swears by him. She says he told her things about herself that even she didn't know. So I went to him just out of curiosity. Well, my dear, he said I had the most extraordinary crystal. He'd never seen a crystal as extraordinary as mine. He said my aura just glowed with fame and fortune. He said that I would make a wonderful writer. Yes, he said he saw pens in my crystal. And I'm going to travel. Maybe not this year but next year or the year after. He didn't say exactly where I was going but he distinctly saw a train or a boat in my crystal. And listen to this, dear. He said I was going to marry a tallish sort of dark man with grayish-brown eyes. Isn't that a perfect description of Fred? He isn't exactly tall, but he is more dark than light and his eyes are more gray than blue. I'm sure he means Fred. He said we'd be married next summer or the winter after that. It's really quite remarkable the things he tells you. Of course, I don't really believe in fortune tellers and I know it's all foolish, but he's awfully good and you must go to him—just out of curiosity.—Kansas City Times.

Jewelers Unable to Duplicate Goa Stone

Goa, a settlement on the West coast of India, has for centuries been the property of the Portuguese, says an article in London Tit-Bits. Shortly after their occupation, the Jesuits appeared and set up a monastery, and it was there that a special sort of "jewel" was made. The Jesuits made these stones, which have come to be known as Goa stones, from various solidified drugs, but we today are totally "in the dark" as to what drugs they were composed of and how they were made.

Each stone was mounted in a silver filigree case and represented fine examples of old workmanship.

When the owner of the stone was troubled with indigestion he had only to scrape off a small portion of his stone, and drink it in a glass of water, and he was quite all right in a few moments.

Goa stones today, however, are rare and are only to be found in valuable collections of antiques.

Paper That Won't Burn
A paper that does not burn has been discovered. The German inventor, Mr. Franz Franch, gave a demonstration recently. He took a sheet of ordinary newspaper, crumpled it into a ball, and wrapped this highly combustible object in a sheet of his fireproof paper. Thus protected, he held it for a few minutes in the flame of a laboratory blast lamp hot enough to melt a glass window pane. Not only did the fireproof wrapping survive, but the ordinary paper inside was not even scorched.

MUCH TO BE INVESTIGATED.

If the President's commission to investigate the abuses and difficulties of prohibition enforcement does not receive appointment and get to work soon, it looks as if the rapidly accumulating volume of work will be greater than the most expert and nimble board of inquiry can possibly grapple with.

To say nothing of the difficulty presented by the numerous efforts in various states to abolish entirely the exercise of their "concurrent power" to enforce the Eighteenth amendment, there are to be considered, among the more recent enforcement acts, the sinking of the I'm Alone, which, whether justifiable or not, promises to embroil this country in a diplomatic "situation"; there is the case of Mrs. De King, who was shot and killed by prohibition officers in a raid on her home in Aurora, Ill.; the case of Representative Morgan of Ohio, voter for the Jones law, who is accused by custom officials of bringing liquor into this country from abroad; the case of Representative Michaelson of Illinois, also a voter for the Jones law, who is under indictment for trying to bring liquor into this country.

These are but a few recent cases at the end of a long list calling for investigation, many of them declared to be grave enforcement abuses, and others of attempted expansion of the scope of the law, the latter including the discourteous interference with the importation of spirituous beverages by the foreign embassies at Washington. The forthcoming investigating commission has vast labor in prospect. Meanwhile it is worthy of note that aroused public opinion appears to be somewhat effective in the matter of reducing extravagance and checking fanaticism. Michigan has amended its law under which the man caught with a pint of whiskey and the bootlegging mother of ten children received life terms, these victims of a fanatical spirit being expected to be granted commutation of sentence.

Discussing the present extraordinary situation, the New York Times pointedly observes: "Millions of Republicans voted for Mr. Hoover despite his apparent acceptance of prohibition as a fixed public policy and did so in the conviction that the conditions would prove too strong for him, and that they need not fear enforcement so stringent as to interfere with their personal habits. The daily record in the press of events and opinions and legislative activities all pointing to a revolt against the excesses of prohibition is a clear indication that the November election and the Jones law have made the task of the enforcer harder than it was in the past, as hoped, much easier. An honest and competent commission looking into the whole prohibition matter can not fail to report these to be the facts."

TALKIE FREEDOM.

A newspaper man, being told that talkies can be produced more cheaply than silent movies, at once hopes that this will enable producers to direct their appeals occasionally to special audiences. He feels that this will make for much more effective and artistic productions.

Silent movies are shown all over the world. Little by little, protests from every corner of the globe have compelled producers to try to eliminate all titles, jokes, characters and episodes that might give offense to any conceivable group of spectators in Maine, California, Timbuctu or points between. No race wants its people to figure as villains. No citizens anywhere want to be laughed at. No state wants to be the target for aspersions of any sort, however vital they may be to the artistry of the drama.

All of this has made for a type of censorship just about as dreadful as official restriction. There have been two movies, of course, but not too many of them. It is obvious that the movie might have risen to as great heights dramatically as it did technically and pictorially if it had not been held down to the lowest

BORROWING OXYGEN.

You have run for a car and although you did not apparently get out of breath while you were running, after you reach it you find yourself almost gasping for breath.

After a minute or two you find that your breathing is normal again. Now, as you know, the oxygen you take into the lungs purifies the blood so that the blood can continue to be used.

And so you breathe in enough oxygen to just nicely keep the blood purified, and this blood goes to the muscles and supplies them with oxygen. Even when the muscle is at rest it is creating energy which is caused by the burning up of this oxygen.

Thus while you are asleep you still need to breathe to take in enough oxygen to keep things going. If you are doing light work which permits you to sit down, you use up a little more oxygen than when you are lying down.

If you walk you need more, and if you run you need still more. Now it is possible for anyone that is used to it, to walk practically all day, and some men have been known to run for hours at a time. This means that they are asking the lungs to pump in as much as ten times the amount of oxygen as when they are resting.

Drs. Henderson and Haggard of Yale University, from a study of the crew representing the United States at the Olympic games in 1924, tell us that in a race of 1.3 miles, these men expended from thirteen to twenty times the energy that is expended by the body under normal restful conditions. Now this means that training will give you the ability to do this much extra work when needed. And another point they record is that this tremendous amount of work required from thirty to sixty per cent more oxygen than the lungs breathe in.

Now where did they get this oxygen if the lungs did not breathe it in? They simply took it from the muscles and tissues of the body for the time being, or as Drs. Henderson and Haggard put it, they drew heavily on their oxygen credit, and were in debt to the extent of 4 to 6 per cent. This deficit is repaid by the rapid breathing that continues after the exertion is over.

The thought then is that training will not only increase your ability to continue work longer and harder, but lengthens and strengthens the oxygen credit of the body.

Christopher McGuire died at his home in the town of Ulster.

Death of Alfred Jenkins of Downs street.

April 4, 1919.—"Dress-Up Week" was inaugurated here with the unveiling of the store windows in the city.

The Kingston Amusement Park Association was organized to develop the present Fair Grounds at the foot of North Front street.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Dean celebrated their golden wedding at their home on Liberty street.

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, April 4.—The Rosendale Baptist Church was comfortably filled last Sunday night and the Easter exercises were very much enjoyed. One member not of the printed program was a recitation entitled "Thank You" by Doris Stadelmann. This came at the close, just after the offering. The envelope collection which was very generous, goes for world wide missionary activities. Very beautiful was the tableau "Rock of Ages" by Lillian Ridge. Baganz with the singing of the hymn "Near the Cross" by Gertrude Kopp.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, April 4.—Mrs. John Arnold and son, Anthony, of Guilford, are visiting Mrs. Arnold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Elmen-dorf. The Arnolds have a farm about eight miles from Schenectady. Mr. Arnold is a successful poultryman and he also raises a large number of pigs.

Miss Vera Wallerstein and friend of Brooklyn are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Osterhoudt and family. Miss Wallerstein is Mrs. Osterhoudt's niece. The girls, who are enthusiastic hikers, seem to be enjoying their visit immensely.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, who for many years were summer boarders at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rainey, in the old village, motored up from Yonkers Saturday night and stayed until Sunday evening with Mrs. Rainey.

Mrs. Jane Bogart of the Coons neighborhood has an old time bread making box which has been in the Bogart family for a great many years. The antique, which is about two feet long and resembles an old fashioned cradle, is said to be considerably over a hundred years old. Mrs. Bogart, by the way, is enjoying good health, and although in her seventy-sixth year, does not show her advanced age.

Mrs. D. B. Ross motored up from Arlington Tuesday to call on some of her friends here. Mr. Ross, who until recently occupied the pulpit of the Shokan Reformed Church, is now well settled in his new charge at Arlington.

St. Clair Barnes, the well known carpenter and fisherman, and a former resident of the Bushkill section, was a business caller here recently. Mr. Barnes, who now makes his home on Long Island, is still celebrating the Hoover victory, especially the epoch-making split in the "solitary South," as the irrepressible conflict was called. He declared that he intended making a bee line for Peekamoose and his old haunts in the upper reaches of the Rondout next Friday night, in order to be on hand bright and early for the trout season opening.

Miss Hazel Townsend of Jamaica is starting at the home of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. George Giles and family. Miss Townsend has been coming to Shokan for a number of years and has many acquaintances in the village.

Mr. Bostock, who bought the Ruckert farm, motored to this place Tuesday from Philadelphia, to take possession of the property. The Bostock farm which embraces several hundred acres in the Heights section, was brought into high state of cultivation through the efforts of the late Henry Coons. It is one of the oldest and best known places in the town.

Enory Personous, one of Shokan's representatives in the World War, and Mrs. Personous have been spending several days with Mrs. Catherine Personous and family.

On Wednesday, April 3, 1860, the funeral of Mrs. Abby Krom was held from her late residence, and on the same day the interment took place of the remains of James W. Markle and George Roosa. Messrs. Markle and Roosa were two Shokan boys who died in the Union Army in Virginia on the preceding January 11 and 17, respectively. "Willie" Markle was the son of William Markle, who lived on what later came to be known as the Parr Harlow place. The Rev. Mr. Peake of the Reformed Church was to have preached the sermon on March 8, but because of the very stormy day when 15 inches of snow fell, the services were postponed until March 22. On April 7, 1867, the bodies of the soldiers arrived in Shokan, and on the following day they were buried in the Dutch Church yard.

The three daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. Van Iderstyne spent the Easter holidays with their parents at the M. E. parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Shultis were Kingston visitors Tuesday.

News from the World on Wheels

Willis-Overland Company reports an operating profit of $9,131,041 before taxes and special charges for 1928, as compared with an operating profit of $7,331,236 for 1927. Taxes and liberal write-offs, including prepaid items incident to introduction of new models, leave a net of $6,382,357 for the year. This is equal to $2.03 per share after Federal taxes, all charges and preferred dividends on the 2,526,684 common shares which were outstanding during 1928 up to December 28 on which date 330,459 additional shares were issued. In August, 1928, Willis-Overland resumed dividends on the common stock at the rate of $1.20 per share per year, and in addition paid to common stockholders of record January 18, 1929, a common stock dividend of five per cent. During the year outstanding bonds were reduced $1,000,000 and preferred stock was reduced by $774,000. A gain of 28.5 per cent in sales during the first quarter of 1929 as compared with the same quarter of 1928 is indicated by President John N. Willis in his letter to stockholders, in which he states that sales for the first quarter are expected to show more than 90,000 cars against 70,554 for the first quarter of 1928.

Net profits of $1,055,578.62 are shown in the annual report of the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation for 1928, covering the first full year's operations of the company under the new management headed by the three Graham brothers, as against a loss of $4,443,351.06 for the preceding year, before the introduction of the completely new line of motor cars bearing the name Graham-Paige. During the year ending December 31, 1928, the report states, 72,956 Graham-Paige motor cars were marketed, an increase of 51,084, or 233 per cent over the preceding year's sales of the models previously offered.

Shipments for the entire first quarter, according to a statement just released by Richard H. Scott, president and general manager, were approximately twenty-five per cent in excess of first quarter shipments in the company's record year of 1928.

The Birds of Life

By DOUGLAS MALLOCK

IF NOT a sparrow perched
But he crows,
Then how can he be a bird
Of the flock?
I do not mean the swallow
Or the wren,
But all the birds that follow
After men.

There is the bird of laughter,
Bird of love,
The birds that follow after Birds above.
There is the robin singing
In the tree,
There is the song sparrowing
In you and me.

It is in wrong to add
Birds that sing,
What of the thoughts that gladden
Everything?
Who meets a smile with sneering,
Love with hate,
Some day shall stand with fear
At God's gate.

Mother's Cook Book

What indeed does the word "cheerfulness" imply? It means a contented spirit; it means a pure heart; it means a kind and loving disposition; it means humility and charity; it means a generous appreciation of others and a modest opinion of self.—Thackeray.

THINGS WE ALL LIKE

WHY use the vicious acid vinegars that are sold in the markets so freely when lemon juice is always to be obtained; an acid that is wholesome to the stomach and may be used in mayonnaise or french dressing and served with no fear of bad results? Here is a new one you may wish to try:

Orange Vinegar.

Strain the juice of six large oranges, place in a glass jar, add one dissolved cake of compressed yeast, cover with a cheese cloth and let stand in a warm place for about a month, or until sour enough to suit the taste. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Raw Vegetable Salad.

Dissolve one package of lemon gelatin in a pint of boiling water, add two tablespoonsful of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash or two of cayenne and chili. Take one-half cupful each of diced beets, raw carrots, raw cabbage and celery. When the gelatin is slightly thickened add the vegetables and put into individual molds. Chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Orange Custard With Meringue.

Peel and remove all the white fiber from three sweet navel oranges. Slice very thin and arrange the slices in a glass serving dish. Cover with a boiled custard which has been prepared from two eggs, a pint of milk and one-third of a cupful of sugar. Flavor with a bit of grated orange rind and chill thoroughly before pouring over the fruit. Top with whipped cream in roses, garnish with a cube of raspberry jelly and serve.

Orange Frosting for Cake.

Take one cupful of sugar, one-third cupful of orange juice, the grated rind of an orange and put to cook until it forms a thread. Do not stir while cooking. Pour in a fine stream over the well-beaten white of an egg and beat until thick and firm enough to stay on the cake.

Bridge Croquettes.

Take two cupfuls of any well seasoned, chopped, cooked meat, mix with one cupful of very thick white sauce. Mold into any desired form, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Adding a bit of chopped green pepper, parsley, olives or onion adds variety and flavor. To make the thick sauce use one cupful of milk and one-third cupful of flour with four tablespoonsful of butter, seasoning to taste.

Business Girls Plan for Banquet

The regular Business Girls' Supper was held at the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday, April 3, and every one was most enthusiastic and 1929. Miss Messenger announced that next week Miss Van Slyke would talk on Peking and the following week will be the Mother and Daughter Banquet. It is hoped that a large number of the girls will plan to come to this event so that the money may be used for the purchase of a new piano for the Y. W. C. A. Miss Van Slyke gave a most interesting talk on three modern books and one play which she witnessed in New York last week. She described graphically "Journey's End," the play of the trenches, picturing the life of the British Officers in a dug-out in March, 1918.

The Book Reviews were "Jesus the Son of Man," written by a Syrian artist and poet, giving seventy brief character sketches of Jesus told by his contemporaries. The second book "The Art of Thinking," was full of practical points on how to concentrate the mind to the very best advantage. Last was the Biography "Old Buddha," written by a Chinese, giving a picture of the life of a simple little school girl, who became the wife of a Chinese Emperor.

The girls were most enthusiastic over the discussions and are looking forward to Miss Van Slyke's talk next week.

FISH ASSAULTS ENEMY WITH SHARP LANCES.

Washington, (AP).—A "physician" fish, encountered with razor-sharp lances which are used to wound, however, instead of heal, has been listed with the Smithsonian institution's vast Philippine collection.

It is known as the surgeon fish. On each side of its tail are sharp pieces of cartilage, so keen that they are veritable knives. In an instant they can be made to stand out from the body for a ripping blow.

A slight slap from the tail is sufficient to cut a man's hand to the bone. Many of the lances are poisoned.

The surgeon fish is confined to the tropical portions of the Indian and Pacific oceans.

SEA DISASTERS STIR INTEREST

Problem of Greater Safety on the Ocean One for Naval Architects.

Washington. — The world of merchant shipping is attracting attention again. Congress has shown interest in the plans of the United States shipping board to sell the Atlantic fleet to private interests and a number of disasters have focused notice on the shipping business.

It seems quite likely that the winter's toll of ships is not a closed chapter for the late winter and early spring constitute a period of tempestuous weather in the north Atlantic. Then follows the iceberg season. The United States coast guard, in co-operation with other maritime nations, maintains an iceberg patrol, throughout the season during which the great ice islands come floating down on the bosom of the Labrador current to cross the ship lanes and menace navigation. Notices of the whereabouts of such bergs are radioed, but fog is an enemy which renders the ship paths far from safe.

Solve Safety Problems.

Much has been done, perhaps all that can be done, so far as radio utilization is concerned. Technical experts are more and more turning their attention to the ships themselves. The Vesuvius mystery is not a forgotten chapter, by any means. It is true that there was difficulty in locating that ship because of wrong radio bearings, but also there was something the matter with the vessel to cause her distress in the first place.

It is thought that the next important step toward safety at sea must be taken by naval architects and have to do with the construction of the vessels themselves. The highest skill already has been expended on ship construction, but still something occasionally goes wrong.

It is a little difficult for the layman to gain a full comprehension of the stresses which a ship must stand in a seaway. The forces of wind and wave are beyond ordinary reckoning. As ships have become larger in size new problems arise which ancient mariners had no cause to consider. The United States shipping board has a fund from which it makes advances to shipbuilders desiring to increase the American merchant marine. The board, therefore, has a special interest in the design of these vessels and their safety and seaworthiness.

Building at Low Ebb.

American shipbuilding now is at low ebb, according to the Department of Commerce. Merchant ships under construction in American yards now constitute only 2 per cent of current world shipbuilding. This is the last country on the list of maritime nations in new construction. England, of course, stands first and Germany second. These are our two principal competitors in the foreign trade. Then come Holland, France, Japan, Sweden, Russia, Italy and Denmark in the order named. So it is expected that demand will soon bring about a spurt in American shipbuilding. Government officials as well as private owners are anxious that the new ships constructed be safe.

The havoc wrought by wind at sea is great even on steam liners. Wind pressure is a tremendous force. But the waves which toss a vessel about, twist and strain her plates and exert tremendous pressure upon her basic structure are the arch enemies.

A small vessel, while more readily capsized or swamped by heavy seas, is not subject to the same strain as a large liner. The longer the ship, the greater the strain placed upon her.

Let us take the Atlantic, which is the busiest of the oceans in which American ships ply. In such a storm as may be expected at this season, the crests of the waves are some 300 yards apart. The waves average about forty feet high or as high as a three or four story house. A small ship glides up and down these swells with comparative ease if she is well constructed, not overloaded and properly handled. Her pitch will be such as to cause discomfort to landlubbers because she will climb hills of water comparable to a 10 per cent grade on land. Now take a larger ship, say one 500 or 600 feet in length. Her nose will be on the crest while her stern is in the trough. Therefore the steepness of the climb is much less, only about 3 per cent on an average. Proceeding to the big liner, she is long enough to bridge the trough, her bow on one crest and her stern on the other.

Hogging and Sagging.

It is the great liner which feels the most intense strain. It will be seen that a ship becomes a bridge from crest to crest. Bow and stern have plenty of water around them acting as supports, but there is very little water beneath the middle of the ship, not enough to float her. So, they, there is a terrific downward pressure amidships. The ship must be constructed, for this reason, as strongly as a bridge over a stream to counteract this sagging.

Again, as the liner proceeds her middle is upborne by one of the huge crests, while bow and stern are unsupported, in some cases being entirely out of water. Then the pressure is upward in the middle, with downward pressure at either end. This is called hogging. Either pressure will break a ship's back. Therefore, such a ship must be built like a trestle bridge across a stream designed to carry a heavy load, but also must be built like a bridge upside down to resist a heavy upward pressure.

Many Ships Vanish.

There are many records of complete disappearances of ships at sea. The most notable case affecting Americans has to do with the utter disappearance of the Cyclops, the great naval collier, which was in touch with the world by radio one hour and utterly gone without a trace the next. No wreckage was ever found. She had not been blown up by a German torpedo. Most naval architects believe that her back was broken by one of those stresses and she sank to the bottom instantly. Several tankers, ships of a type especially susceptible to sagging and hogging strains, have disappeared in the same manner.

Disposition of cargo is another matter which is receiving special attention. Badly disposed cargo will increase these dangerous strains and government inspectors, as well as the marine insurance companies are becoming more insistent concerning this branch of shipping.

Depth of seas makes a great difference in the length of waves. A very deep sea permits tremendous swells to form. Unless they break into combers they are not so dangerous. A ship merely has to climb one long hill and descend another. In the deep, Pacific the crest of waves are half a mile high. No ship ever constructed can bridge these swells. A ship which would be seaworthy in one part of the world might not fare so well in another ocean. All these matters are receiving careful technical study and it is hoped that each year will see great or safety at sea.

Asks $2,000 for White

Alligator; First of Kind Jacksonville, Fla.—Two thousand dollars for an alligator!

Those who prefer blonds will have to pay that much to W. D. Godfrey, alligator farm owner, for what he believes the only white alligator in existence—rare as the celebrated white elephant of India.

Godfrey and his taxidermist, Oscar Swed, were searching in Florida swamps for turtle when they saw what looked like a whitewashed fence rail moving. The rail turned out to be a six-foot saurian, apparently a yellowish white from trailing through a lime pit.

Later, after its capture, the alligator was found they had an albino alligator—the first ever known in Florida.

An offer of $2,000 from the London zoo was turned down. The rank and file of dummy alligators sell for $15 to $20, but whoever heard of a white one?

Godfrey believes his find is seven years old, judging by its weight, 60 pounds, and length. This is youth for an alligator, as many live for hundreds of years. The albino is said to be unusually ferocious.

Arthur Day is the man who overhauled locomotives which transport members of the British royal family. He has had the same task 25 years.

Life's length is not measured by its hours and days, but by that which we have done therein for our country and our kind.

People who say nothing is impossible have never tried having a good time, broke.

Few men have succeeded in life through luck. But the men who have succeeded through pluck are countless.

We read of a chap who wants a divorce because his wife married another man. That surely ought to be a good excuse.

Among the many things that man doesn't know is what to do for a sick dog.

Strong men don't follow the crowd, they lead it.

TEXAS OWNS PISTOL USED ON JESSE JAMES.

Houston, Tex. (P.)—The pistol that ended the career of Jesse James 47 years ago has been fired again.

HAMMO TOWN PLEDGES SALARY TO PHYSICIAN

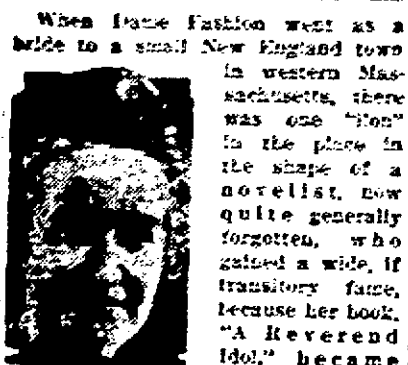

Quincy, Jan. 1929.—After being without a physician for several years because there were not enough sick people here to support one, residents of this city voted their resources and engaged a doctor.

The medical man was brought here under a contract which specifies that any month his fees fall below a specified "proper income" he will be paid from a fund made up by assessments on citizens.

As an initial test case, each family was assessed $20 and the money was placed in a local bank for the physician to draw upon. The town's population is 1,100.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

When Dame Fashion went as a bride to a small New England town in western Massachusetts, there was one "fashion" in the place in the shape of a novelist, now quite generally forgotten, who guided a wide, if transitory, fashion because her book, "A Reverend Idol," became identified with the revered Phillips Brooks. Her heroine, in those days of more than thirty-five years ago, had a "rainy-day friz" of artificial ringlets sewed into her hat, and the poor novelist came in for more or less criticism because the hero, for lack of more precious souvenirs, took this false piece to save for a treasure.

Never, never since that day so long ago until this season has Dame Fashion heard of similar planning, until a recent Paris dispatch came, headed, "Sewed-in Ringlets Boosted in Paris." It goes on to declare, "Curly which come off with the bonnet, being sewed into it, are a serious suggestion of Parisian milliners, including some of note. They are attached at the back of the bonnet shaped hats for afternoon and evening wear. Most of them are just a turned-up fringe, but some milliners are sewing three and four-inch curls into such hats." The old adage in New England used to be, "Keep a thing for seven years and you will find a use for it," but in fashion cycles, "Keep a style for forty years and it returns," might be nearer.

One good index finger comes pointing out of this story. And that is, that Paris still sets strong approval upon the close-shaped bonnet hat, which in becomingness has some of the qualities of the famous "little girl with a curl"; when it is well suited to the face, it is immensely becoming, but "when it's bad, it's horrid." Not so many years ago, when hats were made comfortably large, milliners often slipped inside them an adjustable band, to make them fit the head, calling this a "halo." A rhymester wrote:

The modern saint is modest,
Though she's good for this and that;
But you'll surely have to praise her
For her halo's in her hat!

Now times have changed. Sweeping up from the face, in many of the newest season hats goes a semi-circular section, of the same material as the hat, or a trimming material. And the technical name for this extremely prominent part of the modern hat is "halo."

Quite in contrast with the old idea of "keeping seven years" is the new industrial idea coming to the fore of "creative wasting." A powerful speech was lately made by a great man in industry on this topic. Declared he, "We need to do more creative wasting in order to promote greater progress." So if we have pondered whether to "get through another summer with last year's hat," it probably would be the part of wisdom to do a bit of this high-sounding "waste" and bloom out like the roses.

Having successfully revived a few seasons passed, it was more generally revived in France however than in America. This season they have hit upon challis. Printed in tiny floral and other old-fashioned designs, it takes its place with other lightweight woollens and seems especially appropriate for the town ensemble with or without a sleeveless frock.

When a printed material is pleated for the skirt and used plain for the waist, naturally one gets quite a different impression of the design. This is especially true of box-pleating rather than small ones. Many of the smartest spring skirts are boxpleated wholly or in part and stitched to quite a low level. A scarf of the same material as the dress is another of the season's style messages. When a print is used for an ensemble, it is usually wisest to choose a small pattern. This type of print really rules anyway with the usual exceptions that are forever upsetting rules.

Ruffled gowns, both printed and plain, have a way of being elongated at the back the ruffles frequently following a curving line around the hips and extending to the hem, leave a plain, or unpleated panel down center back. This is a practical arrange and minimizes one's pressing problems. When skirts are so ruffled, they are sure to be pleated or cut on circular lines.

FLIES IN MACHINERY INTERFERE WITH CLOCK.

Hamden, Conn. (AP).—When the town's clock in the new memorial hall stopped this spring and its mechanism was found to be wound up, an expert was called to diagnose the trouble.

He found that myriads of flies, mostly of the bluebottle variety, that had been hibernating in the clock aperture all winter had come to life in the first breath of spring. They had jammed the wheels and cogs so effectively that the hands could not move.

Bushels of flies were swept out of the clock before it was started. There was no other trouble.

Special Session To Test Hoover Strength

The special session of the seventy-first congress is expected to deal chiefly with the major subjects of farm relief and tariff revision. Representative Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, (upper right), wants consideration also of a bill to reappointment membership of the house. Senator Watson, Indiana (lower right), will take his place as leader of the senate majority forces. The house majority leadership is unchanged, but Democrats will be marshaled by a new leader, Representative Garner (lower left) of Texas.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)
Washington, (AP)—The special session of congress promises to provide an early test of strength of the Hoover policies on at least two major subjects and possibly others. The first test will come on farm relief, which, with the tariff, will be discussed by the new executive in a message to the congress probably the second day it meets.

While Mr. Hoover has his own ideas on this subject, revolving principally around better marketing facilities, the Democrats in congress are threatening to raise an issue by reviving a plan closely resembling the equalization fee.

The Republicans, with increased majorities in both houses—15 in the senate and 100 in the house—see little chance of any such minority program being adopted, but they apparently will have to face a fight just the same.

The tariff will supply another test for the president. He wants the rate changes, outside the agricultural section, limited to a few schedules where economic shifts prove them to be necessary. Republican leaders have pledged to back him up on this, but they admit they are tackling a difficult task.

Still another test—not so important as the others—will be afforded by the effort of the Republican leadership to limit the session to consideration of farm relief and the tariff. The Democrats and even some Republicans are opposed to such restriction and are prepared to offer other bills. These, however, would develop in the senate, for the house has taken advantage of its rules and prepared to organize only those committees needed to handle the twin subjects.

Representative Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, would like to have the senate pass upon the house reappointment bill. The house is ready to consider such a bill, provided the senate acts first.

Should the squabble over the national origins clause of the immigration act remain unsettled by the time the special session starts, it too, may be injected into the proceedings.

President Hoover favors repeal of the clause, but under the law it will go into effect July 1 unless congress postpones the date. The effect of the provision would be to cut down immigration by about 15,000 a year, and increase the numbers allowed entry from England and dis-eliminate against Germany and other countries.

Interest will not be centered alone on legislation at the coming session. Many new personalities will be on the congressional stage for the first time and several veteran members will be playing higher roles. The senate will have a new presiding officer and majority leader in former Senator Curtis of Kansas and Senator Watson of Indiana. Robinson of Arkansas will be at his old post as minority leader.

The Republican leadership in the house will be the same, with Longworth of Ohio wielding the speaker's gavel for his third term, and Tilson of Connecticut again serving in his capacity as majority leader. The Democrats, however, will have a new floor leader in Representative Garner of Texas, who begins his fifteenth term at the opening of the seventy-first congress.

Garner will retain his post as ranking Democrat on the important ways and means committee. He is looked upon as spokesman for the minority on all financial matters and his voice undoubtedly will be heard time and again during the debates on the new tariff bill.

Seven new senators will make their bow at the session, and 70 new members will be among the entire membership to be given the oath in the house—three of them women, all Ruths: Ruth Baker Pratt, Republican, New York; Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, Illinois, and Ruth Bryan Owen, Democrat, Florida. Another new member is Oscar De Priest, negro, of Illinois.

Father and Son Day At Rotary

Talks on Relationship Between the Man and the Boy, Which is Making For Better Conditions.

Father and Son day was observed Wednesday at the noon luncheon of the Kingston Rotary Club at the Clarendon Hotel. There was a large turnout and several of the members who were unable to bring their son or who had no son to bring brought as their guest a friend. The man with the largest family was Prof. Van Ingen of the High School who brought as his guest, J. W. Kias, supervisor of physical training in the public schools, and the eleven members of the Kingston High School basketball team which recently represented this city at the tournament at Syracuse. Each member of the team was presented to the Rotarians by Coach Kias.

In the absence of the regular speaker the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seely took over that portion of the program and demonstrated his ability to keep the musical members of the club in trim.

The speaker of the day was Senator William T. Byrne of Albany who is also vice president of the Albany Rotary Club. Mr. Byrne was presented to the club and its guests by James Byrne of the Kingston club at the request of President Emil Boesneck.

Mr. Byrne in opening stated that when he accepted the invitation to visit the Kingston club he did not know that the occasion was that of a Father and Son dinner. However, he proceeded to deliver a most interesting talk which was directed to the sons as well as to the fathers. He briefly spoke of the aims of Rotary and of its benefits toward bringing together the men of the community.

From a small beginning in Chicago about 24 years ago Rotary has grown until it embraces at present some 150,000 members in 50 different countries of the world. Rotary is more than a mere luncheon club and in every community its work is going forward. As Rotary is bringing together men of the various communities to understand each other better, so, too, it is bringing together the nations of the world for a better understanding.

Father and Son Becoming Chums.

In the youth of today Mr. Byrne expressed great confidence. He cautioned the men of today to stand by the youth and to assist them in every way. Today more than ever the man and the boy are becoming chums. In days past the father and the son were separated by a breach which is rapidly being closed. Today the father and son are becoming more chums and this spirit is making for better conditions. Today the boy of 14 years is pretty much of a man, much more so than a few years ago.

By a closer association between boy and man, the speaker said, the youth of today would make for better men of tomorrow and the close association of father and son was a thing which would bear valuable fruit for the future. He also spoke on the question of what the youth of today should do in the future.

Many youths were anxious to take up a certain line of work but were discouraged by parents. Later this inclination if followed might lead to a brilliant career. Even though the boy is inclined toward some seemingly impossible career he should be given the opportunity to express that inclination and then if it is apparently impossible the parent should attempt to reason out the matter with the son. Every boy or girl should be given at least one great opportunity and a real effort should be made by parents to find out what the boy or girl wants to do. If their choice is an impossible one frequently the matter can be reasoned out and the boy or girl directed toward a goal which will bring much success.

Arab Flute Players Masters of Melody

The flute is the most interesting of all the Arab instruments and the hardest to play. It consists of a long reed hollowed out, about half an inch in diameter and from two to three feet long. It has eight stops, but there is no sort of mouthpiece.

The sound is produced by the player blowing across the top of the flute at some particular angle which has never been able to discover, and producing the softest, saddest, deepest note one can possibly imagine.

To the most unimpaired, the sound of the long flute must appeal, and when accompanying one of those love ballads of the South it is enchanting.

These flutes are used to accompany all kinds of songs, but chiefly those concerning the exploits of heroes and the love lays which hold such a big place in all Arab melodies. Occasionally it is used to follow religious chants, but not always. It is C. Bodley in "Algeria From Within."

Food and Exercise

The trouble with most Americans, men and women, but men particularly, is this: They violate two rules—they eat too much, they exercise too little. Diet is the bane of most lives. To curb the appetite is a difficult commission, because eating is one temptation we have three times every day. The tendency is to overeat, and none of us are exempt from it. Outdoor sports and games are best for the business man. They benefit him most because they keep him outdoors and here he breathes good fresh air and breathes deeply while exercising. Any sport is good, such as golf, baseball, rowing—Charles E. Roth in Physical Culture Magazine.

Flour From Apples

Experiments are reported of the manufacture of flour from apples in the Pacific Northwest, and it is felt in some quarters that this project will show considerable development. It requires seven tons of apples to make one ton of flour. A baking company is now making and selling cookies manufactured from this by-product. Shipments have gone as far east as Chicago, and the cookies seem to meet with favor. Because the apple flour contains no gluten, much experimentation was necessary to determine the right percentage of wheat flour to combine with the apple product in order to bake properly.

Ignited by Steam

That it is possible to light a cigarette with steam was demonstrated before the Royal Institution of London. Doctor Andrade produced high-pressure steam hot enough to set fire to shavings and cigarettes. The scientist explained that the steam which escapes from a teakettle is not, strictly speaking, real steam. By the time it emerges it has condensed into tiny drops of liquid and has ceased to be steam in the true sense. Real water steam is an invisible gas.

AMERICAN WOMAN IS GUEST IN CAMP OF DESERT KING

Tells of Visit to Abdul Salaam Fayed and of Night Spent in Desert.

Cairo.—To spend a night on the desert, a guest of Abdul Salaam Fayed, is one of the most delightful and interesting experiences it has ever been my good fortune to enjoy," writes Mrs. Edgerton Parsons of New York city, who is cruising around the world on the Canadian Pacific Empress of Australia.

In Cairo she and her three daughters had the experience of threading their way on camel-back between the Pyramids of Gizeh, out over the sands of the Libyan desert to Abdul Salaam Fayed's camp, who greeted them gorgeously arrayed in multi-colored robes.

"To dwellers of crowded cities," said Mrs. Parsons, "the mere mention of sleeping on the desert might sound ominous. However, we were assured that we would be well taken care of, and as I have always desired to see the sun rise back of the Pyramids we decided to make the trip. It was an unique experience and so full of joy I would not have missed it. On arriving at the camp we were invited to tea in a large marquee lined entirely with Egyptian tapestries of patterns which dazzled and intrigued. Afterwards, we were escorted to our sleeping tents which were fitted with two cots and resplendent with tapestry, the roof being made in a conical dome pattern that was marvelous.

"Native-made wares were enticingly displayed in another tent and here we found the son of Abdul, a fine-looking man who spoke English. At eight o'clock we sat down to a seven-course dinner cooked and served in a manner that made us gasp. Then we were entertained by an Egyptian magician 'gally-gally' who made us blink with bewilderment at the ease with which he performed his sleight-of-hand tricks within a few feet of us. After the tricks, we all went out to see the moon rise, and under its soft beams a huge bonfire was lighted round which beautiful Arab horses performed to the weird piping of a native instrument. While the horses performed, dragomen with their camels pressed round, pleading with us to take a ride and see the Sphinx by moonlight. We accepted and came to the camp of Abdul Salaam Fayed. We retired at midnight, awoke at sunrise and saw the first faint golden streaks turn to pink, then to rose, and then to crimson as old King Sol mounted higher and higher. After breakfast we wended our way back on the most fanciful-named camels imaginable, back past the Sphinx and the Pyramids to Cairo. We had spent a night of novel charm and enchantment."

"Papered" Truck Gardens Yield Heavier Crops

Port Angeles, Wash.—Papering the farm to make crops grow has developed a new industry among the pulp paper mills of the Pacific Northwest. They are turning out gigantic rolls of paper of the consistency of lightweight building felt, less than one-thirty-second of an inch thick. This paper will be laid flat on newly prepared ground in long rows, the sides weighted down with turned-up earth. Into holes punctured in the paper plants will be set or seeds planted. Canteloupe, watermelons, tomatoes, cabbage and other crops yield 50 per cent increase grown under the pulp paper mulch, experiments have proved. Big shipments of the crop paper have been made to Hawaii for use on pineapple plantations.

Appendicitis? Try Horseshoe Cure

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Whether or not there is any connection, President H. L. Ermaninger of the National Horseshoe Pitching association, says no active member of the organization within ten years has suffered from or been operated upon for appendicitis.

"Horseshoe pitching indulged in by men of middle age and past is a form of mild exercise that has proved most beneficial," Mr. Ermaninger declares. "It is a game played by hundreds, and here in St. Petersburg there is a club of 175 players who have at no time complained of such an ailment as appendicitis."

Oil Town Hostelry Is Moved Overnight

Midland, Texas.—Here in the oil country they move hotels from town to town almost overnight. E. E. Bryant, a traveling man, stayed at a hotel in Leck, a small oil town in western Texas. Business called him away, but he left his belongings in the hotel.

When Bryant returned the hotel was gone. Leck's hostelry had been jacked up and moved to Wink, another oil town, where Bryant found his apparel.

Boy of 13 Gets 50-Cent Reward for Finding $300

Forestville, Conn.—The eyes of thirteen-year-old Joseph Nocera nearly popped out of his head when he picked up a pocketbook and found it contained $300 in bills. It was more money than he had ever seen before. He found a card in the purse bearing the name of the owner. On returning the money he was given a 50-cent piece for his honesty.

Girl Scouts and Camp Wendy

All through the air there are signs of spring and with it come the thoughts of a happy summer time, and the Girl Scouts are beginning to think of Camp Wendy at Wallkill.

Last year Camp Wendy registered double the number of the previous season and everybody was very happy over it, but they are looking forward this year to a much bigger camp with Locals, White Plains, Ridgewood, Beacon and many others sending a large number of girls. They are very glad to know Miss Mabel Shannon is to be their director again this year and after two years of very efficient directorship, know that everything will go with a swing and a snap as heretofore.

It is hoped that all will be good. Scouts and help the future girls of the country hold up the high standards of womanhood in their community.

To show the standards they are living up to, the following are their ten laws:

A Girl Scout's Honor is to be trusted.

A Girl Scout is Loyal.

A Girl Scout's Duty is to be useful and to help others.

A Girl Scout is a Friend to all, and a Sister to every other Girl Scout.

A Girl Scout is Courteous.

A Girl Scout is a Friend to Animals.

A Girl Scout Obeys Orders.

A Girl Scout is Cheerful.

A Girl Scout is Thrifty.

A Girl Scout is Clean in Thought, Word and Deed.

What Is The Secret Of This Medicine's Wonderful Power?

Persons Who Once Suffered from Constipation, Nervousness, Gastritis, Weak Kidneys, Sluggish Liver, Headaches, Rheumatism and Neuritis Openly Declare the Great Herb Remedy—Nu-Erb Has Given Grand Relief.

MARVELOUS BANISHMENT OF PAIN AND DISEASE

No medicine ever introduced here has caused so much local comment in so short a time as has Dr. French's Nu-Erb, the well known herbal remedy being introduced at McBride Drug Store. No medicine has ever met with such a profound success. Everywhere it is offered for sale it springs into almost instant popularity, and thousands marvel at its powers to relieve them of troubles from which they had tried in vain to rid themselves of.

Thousands have asked what is the secret? What is the answer? There is only ONE answer: Genuine merits and honest principles. Nu-Erb is made from twelve of the most valuable herbs and roots from the vegetable kingdom. They are no secret. They are published on every Nu-Erb package. They may be seen on display any day at McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall Street. The Nu-Erb specialist now located there has advised hundreds of local people how best to take Nu-Erb and they have found prompt relief from many different ailments which they declare no other medicine has been able to relieve. You may read here of a few reliable citizens who are daily praising Nu-Erb.

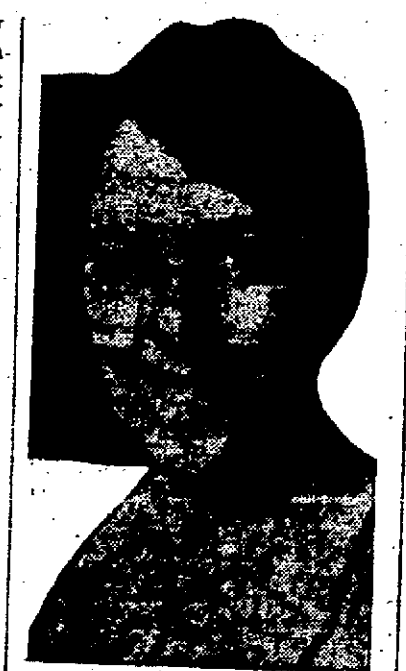

Persons suffering from stomach disorders, indigestion, gastritis, deranged kidneys, sluggish liver, blood impurities, shattered nerves, rheumatism, constipation and many other symptoms brought on by the vital organs being weakened, come forward stating that Nu-Erb has put new life and energy in their rundown systems.

"I CHEERFULLY RECOMMEND IT," SAYS PROSPECT STREET LADY.

"For the past two years, my stomach and nerves have been in such a delicate condition that it has been a source of much worry to me," said Mrs. Harvey Hornbeck, 161 Prospect St., Kingston, N. Y., recently while talking with the Nu-Erb man at McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall Street.

"No matter how careful I was of my diet, I'd get severe attacks of indigestion after every meal. My liver was sluggish causing dizzy spells and dark floating spots to appear before my eyes. I felt irritable, tired and restless all the time and my entire system became very badly rundown. I was also a chronic victim to constipation."

"All that has changed since I have been using the Nu-Erb. It has relieved the indigestion and put an end to those dizzy spells and spots before my eyes. It has also strengthened my nerves so that I sleep soundly all night long and have regained all my lost strength and energy. It has regulated my bowels so that I am no longer troubled with constipation and it has also put an end to neuritis from which I have been suffering for some time past. I will gladly recommend this medicine to anybody."

MRS. HARVEY HORNBECK

If you feel tired and achy all the time it is because your blood is below normal. If the trouble is from improper functioning of the stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels, the health building medicine, Dr. French's Nu-Erb, will quickly relieve the suffering and restore health and strength.

SPLendid WORK OF NU-ERB

IS TOLD BY THIS KINGSTON MAN

Nu-Erb is a strengthening medicine that tones the body organs to proper functioning relieving sluggish conditions that cause indigestion, gas and sour stomach, backache, frequent urination, dizziness, headaches, nervousness and rheumatic aches and pains.

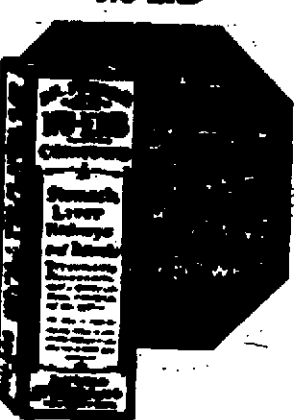

If you suffer from such troubles do not become discouraged, but take the advice of thousands of others who have found that Nu-Erb often does the work after many other medicines have failed. For example here is the recent statement of Mr. O. A. Wood, 22 Oak St., Kingston, N. Y.

"My stomach became out of order several years ago and ever since that time I have been suffering from indigestion and gas in my stomach. It seemed that no matter how careful I was of what I ate it caused me misery and distress for several hours afterward. My nerves became in a weakened condition. I slept poorly at night. I had a continual wornout, tired feeling and I was a chronic victim to constipation."

"Nu-Erb has put an end to each one of these troubles and now I can eat just about anything I want without having any troubles with my stomach. My nerves appear to be in first rate condition. I sleep soundly all night long and that tired worn out feeling has disappeared. Nu-Erb has also regulated my bowels so that I have no more troubles with constipation. I will recommend this medicine to anyone who is suffering from such troubles."

Almanac
 American manuscript chronicling the life of the late 12th century, and also in the 13th century of Oxford and Cambridge. The first printed almanac known appeared in the year 1493 and 1494 and the "Almanac of Sheperd," which appeared about 1497, was the earliest printed in English.

Monument to St. Francis
 A very beautiful monument to St. Francis of Assisi has been erected in the eastern cemetery at Milan, Italy. St. Francis was the founder of the religious order of the Friars Minor, usually styled the Franciscans. He was known for simplicity, amiability and extreme humility of character and was noted for his love of nature.

Sun Back Dresses Barred in Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., April 4 (AP).—"Sun back" dresses may be the latest fad but they will not be worn at Robert E. Lee High School if Mrs. Marguerite Culp, dean of girls, has her way.

Six girls who appeared in classes yesterday wearing the frocks with abbreviated backs, felt the dean's wrath when she decided that the dresses "actually reached the point of immodesty."

Mrs. Culp ordered the girls home to put on "decent" clothes. "Such clothes are immodest," she said, "and demoralize the classes. There's a time and place for all things, but school is certainly not the place for sun back dresses."

The girls, who maintained that the dresses admitted many healthful rays of sunshine, were indignant at Mrs. Culp's stand. Five of them complied with her order but the sixth could not see why she should be forced to change.

"My mamma approves and the dresses are supposed to be healthy," she said. "Anyway, I don't think it's any of the teacher's business what I wear."

Heads of other Jacksonville High Schools had varying opinions about the dresses.

The Limit

Little Anita was in the first month of the first year of her school life. Laboriously she had learned the consecutive order of numbers as far as seven. She couldn't imagine that anything in the counting line could exist beyond that figure.

Just at that time her mother reached another milestone on the road of life and the members of the family wished her many happy returns of the day. When it came to Anita's turn, she said:

"Many happy returns of the day, mother. I hope you live—" and then after a long and thoughtful pause, "for seven years more."

Little Journeys in Americana

By LESTER B. COLBY

Fate of Cynthia Anne Parker

FOR nearly a hundred years now the tale of the kidnapping of Cynthia Anne Parker has been a favorite story around the firesides of Texas. Cynthia Anne's parents, with a small group of friends and relatives, settled in 1833 on the Navarro river, not far from the present town of Groesbeck.

One bright May morning in 1836 a war party made up of fierce Comanches, came to the Navarro, swept down upon them and murdered them all. That is, all except Cynthia Anne, who was twelve, a younger brother, and two or three who escaped. The two children were carried off.

For many years after that rumors seeped into the settlements, telling of a white girl who rode swiftly with the Comanches. She was blue-eyed. Traders, occasionally in contact with the nomadic plains tribes, now and again set eyes upon her. Once a party met her face to face but she remained dumb in their presence.

They tried to tell her of her relatives, but though she listened, they could not get her to answer them. Finally she grew up and became the wife of Peta Nocona. Nocona, in the passing of years, was elected chief. She bore him children.

Once, after she was married, a group of white men who visited the Comanche camp, asked her if she would not like to return to her people. Pointing to Peta Nocona she said, "He is my husband. I love him." And pointing to three naked little red-skinned children paddling about, she added: "And those are my babies. I love them, too. No, no. My place is here."

Comanches were restless, fierce, swift-moving savages. They were better at home on horseback than anywhere else in the world. They could not resist the joy of making forays on those ranches which were the outposts of civilization. Thievery, especially horse stealing, was an honorable business among them.

So it happened that a command of soldiers under S. L. Ross, later governor of Texas, surprised Peta Nocona's band one day in 1860. Ross himself, in individual combat with Nocona, broke the chief's right arm with a pistol bullet. Ross described the death of Nocona, thirty years afterward, as follows:

"I then shot the chief twice through the body. He walked deliberately to a small tree nearby, the only one in sight and, leaning against it with one arm about it for support, began to sing a weird, wild song—the death song of the savage."

"I called upon him to surrender but he refused, with contempt, and tried to run me through with his lance which he held in his left hand. I could only look upon him with admiration. He had no chance for escape. His band was utterly destroyed and his wife and child captured within his sight."

"Yet he was undaunted and preferred death to life. I directed my Mexican servant to end his misery with a charge of buckshot."

Cynthia Anne was brought to civilization and turned over to her uncle, Col. Isaac Parker, living near Weatherford in Parker county, named for the family. The rest of Cynthia Anne's story is touching.

After twenty-four years with the Comanches she could not return to the life of the whites. Many times she tried to run away. Her family watched her, hopefully but in vain. Her heart bled for her tribe and her babies. Finally it broke. She died in 1864, literally beating herself to death against the bars that held her. (© 1929, Lester B. Colby.)

Good and Bad Luck That Cuckoo Brings

A wealth of folklore and superstition has been wound around the cuckoo all down the ages. In the Maritime highlands and Hebrides if the cuckoo is first heard by one who has not broken his fast some misfortune is expected. Indeed, it is considered a reproach to one to have heard the cuckoo while hungry.

In France, to hear the cuckoo for the first time fasting is to make the bearer an idle do-nothing for the rest of the year. There is a similar belief in Somersetshire. In Northumberland one is told, if walking on a hard road when the cuckoo first calls, that the ensuing season will be full of calamity; to be on soft ground is a lucky omen.

The cuckoo is one of the shyest of birds. He is not a frequenter of thick bushes, like the warbler tribe, but takes boldly to the trees; and yet he is but seldom seen. His loud call is an incident of courtship. The hen birds are supposed to hear many singers before they choose a mate, and apparently choose the loudest. But though the male cuckoos are seldom seen, the hens are even more rarely met with; they have not the betraying call, and are less often in the open. Their nest, not lined up with nest-building, is occupied in searching for eligible nests of other birds. An instinct induces them to make this choice from those of birds whose food would nourish the young cuckoo.—Montreal Family Herald.

Picture in a Jewel

A magnificent black opal, discovered on the Waggett fields of New South Wales, has been valued at from $15,000 to $25,000, and christened "Light of the World." The distinct outline of a woman's figure may be seen in the middle of the gem.

Kingston Opens At Middletown

Kingston High School will engage in its first DUSO baseball game on April 27, at Middletown, when they play the high school team of that place. The local nine has not had any outdoor practice so far this season, but expect to get down to business after the Easter vacation. A number of new faces will be seen in the local lineup this season as there are a few positions to fill. A new pitcher will see action, so also will a new first baseman.

Kingston, however, fares much better than Middletown, the latter having but three regulars as a nucleus.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 4 (AP).—Easing credit conditions, coupled with another batch of favorable trade news, provided the background for a drift recovery in prices in today's stock market. Some heaviness was apparent at the opening as a result of overnight liquidation inspired by fears of further adverse credit development. But confidence was quickly restored on the publication of Washington advices indicating that no action bearing on the financial situation was expected from the meeting of Federal Reserve Government.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent and the high rate attracted such a large supply of funds that loans were arranged in the outside market at as low as 8 per cent. Retention of the 5 1/2 per cent discount rate by the Bank of England was interpreted as an indication that no increase was likely in the rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, directors of which meet after the close of the market.

Steel shares were brought forward by speculators for the advance as the new leaders of the market. Transactions from steel centers has been unusually favorable of late, and record breaking peacetime earnings are predicted for several of the large producers.
Fresh buying support came into the oil shares after an opening period of heaviness, but the advance was held in check by the liquidation of stock bought by traders for a quick turn on the theory that the nationwide curtailment program of the American Petroleum Institute would be approved by Federal officials.
Rails, which have been lagging behind the general market for weeks, turned upward in the late afternoon under the leadership of Erie, which was quickly marked up 4 points.

The Cashew Nut
The cashew nut or cashew is the fruit of a tropical tree, anacardium occidentale, which can be grown in this country only in southern Florida.
The tree grows 20 to 40 feet high and is large and spreading. The nuts are kidney shaped or heart shaped, the size of large beans, and are borne on fleshy receptacles called cashew apples. The edible kernels of the nuts are roasted in oil and salted like almonds.

Mexican Aviators Die in Air Raid

Bombing Resumed at Mexican Border
Tomb—Federal Forces Report
"Horrible Slaughter" of Rebels—
Revolutions Now a Month Old.
Naco, Sonora, Mexico, April 4 (AP).
—A Mexican federal bombing plane carrying two fliers was shot down in flames by rebel gun fire this morning while engaged in a raid on General Frasco Topote's rebel troop train a short distance south of here. The aviators were killed.

Border Tension Increases.
Naco, Ariz., April 4 (AP).—The explosion of another Mexican rebel bomb on American soil and the increasing frequency of revolutionary air raids on the loyal stronghold at Naco, Sonora, added to the tension on both sides of the border here today. A decisive battle for the undisputed possession of Naco was expected momentarily.

Federal Slaughter Rebels.
Mexico City, April 4 (AP).—The month-old rebellion emerged today from a four-day encounter in southern Chihuahua a wavering shadow of the movement which on March 3 threatened the existing Mexican government.
Pinned like rats in a cage by the fire of coordinating units of federal cavalry, infantry, artillery and air service, the army of the north yesterday at La Reforma, Chihuahua, was almost annihilated in what was described in government dispatches as a "horrible slaughter". Hundreds of rebels were believed to have been killed.

Considering his sanguinary work on the north well done, General Plutarco Elias Calles, federal commander-in-chief, announced diversion of 5,000 of his troops to the states of Guajuato and Jalisco, to wage a similar war of "extermination" against the so-called religious insurgents of those states.
"Those of the rebel infantry who were not killed are our prisoners," General Juan Andres Almazan, federal field commander, wired President Emilio Portes Gil. "The veritable butchery among them was stupendous."

County Clerk
Cannot Be Notary

Albany, N. Y., April 4 (P.)—An opinion of Attorney General Hamilton Ward, announced today, held that the office of county clerk and notary public can not properly be held by the same person under certain circumstances.

The opinion was requested by Charles A. Harrett, commissioner of motor vehicles, who said official reports showed that some county clerks and their assistants retain for their personal use a fee for notarial service in connection with applications for motor licenses.

Attorney General Ward's opinion said in part: "I conclude that if the fact that a county clerk or an assistant of such officer is also a notary public is to result in the retention by such officer or assistant, as his own, of moneys which the legislature never meant for him to have, then the offices of county clerk and notary public are incompatible and not proper to be held by the same person."

Starting married life is comparatively cheap. Stopping it is what costs big money.

"When Personal Right" Takes Second Place

One frequently hears a man say that he made his own money and has a right to do with it as he pleases. There was never a more fallacious argument. No man in a civilized government or in civilized society can do as he pleases. Only persons ignorant of the basic principles of government and society would hold to that opinion.

If one is to receive the protection of government he must give up certain rights. He must drive on a certain side of the street. He must stop when the red light is on. He must keep off his neighbor's property unless given permission to enter. A man makes his money by reason of the protection of a whole government which has all these don'ts and prohibitions on his free actions. If he expects to retain the good will of his friends and of the community in which he lives he must be a part of it and do as the community and his friends would have him do. If he has money he must give to this cause and to that cause or whatever cause is endorsed by the people with whom he associates. Otherwise both he and his family lose the friendships and social contacts that most people enjoy and which make life worth the living. What is life or what is money without friends or without respect of acquaintances? It is as hollow as a deflated balloon.—Newcastle Times.

Success Means Work

One of the commonest mistakes and one of the costliest is thinking that success is due to some genius, some magic—something or other which we do not possess. Success is generally due to holding on, and failure to letting go. You decide to learn a language, study music, take a course of reading, train yourself physically. Will it be a success or failure? It depends upon how much pluck and perseverance that word "decide" contains. The decision that nothing can overrule, the grip that nothing can detach, will bring success. Remember the Chinese proverb, "With time and patience, the mulberry leaf becomes satin."—Exchange.

Senior Sunday School Games On "Y" Court

Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. court two Senior Sunday School League games were played. The first game which was to be played between Port Ewen and the Congregationalists was forfeited. The first game played of the night was an easy victory for Clinton Avenue over St. John's, 45 to 12. The Congregationalists trimmed St. James, 42 to 36. This game was expected to be close and hard fought, but for some reason or other St. James' men were not playing their usual brand of basketball. The St. James team's men took shot after shot but they just wouldn't go in and that was all, while on the other hand the Congregationalists were sinking them from any position on the court. Krum and Dawkins collected 14 points apiece for the winners. Stump with 14 marks beside his name, and Corregan, who gathered 10, were the big point getters for the St. James team.

Chandlers Play K. H. S. Tonight

Tonight at 9 o'clock on the Y. M. C. A. court the Chandlers will meet the Kingston High School Varsity basketball team. The game promises to attract a record crowd as the teams have large followings. This is the first game of the season between these clubs. Throughout the season the quintets have met strong opposition in championship contests and are prepared to be given a severe test tonight. In the preliminary game, which is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock, the Y's Men and High School Seconds will play.

PORT EWEN QUINTET IN FINAL HOME GAME TONIGHT

The Knights of Pythias team of Port Ewen will play the Silk Mill team of the Industrial League tonight at the Port Ewen court. This will be the last game of this season for the Knights on their home court. A preliminary game will also be staged between the Port Ewen Men's Club and the Albany Avenue Baptist team of the Sunday School League.

Kingston Leaders Organized. The Kingston Leaders have recently organized for the season and will play their first game on Sunday with the Scramblers. Thomas Delecco is manager and M. Celuch is captain. The line-up is as follows: Pitcher, M. Celuch; catcher, J. Delecco; first base, R. Budzinski; second base, F. Mauro; third base, J. Bamy; left field, R. Williams; center field, T. Decicco; right field, L. Dawack; shortstop, L. Jansen; substitute, Joe Decicco.

Useful Little Animal Victim of Ignorance

The shrew is a tiny animal which is to be found in many parts of the world, but not in any great numbers anywhere for the reason that it is, like the snake, greatly misjudged and is killed on sight by persons who are familiar with the superstitions surrounding it. This diminutive animal devours insects of all kinds and in this respect it is of great benefit to farmers in particular and mankind in general. In a book published in 1856 it is mentioned that the common shrew "is a raveling beast... it beareth a cruel mind, desiring to hurt everything; there is no creature that it loveth. They are fraudulent and take their prey by deceit and a lot more."

It was believed that the shrew poisoned cattle. In some English country districts it is still thought that if one passes over the foot of a man or touches a foot of a beast lameness is brought on. The cure for this is a cruel one. A shrew is captured, a hole is bored in an ash tree, and the live animal is pushed in. The entrance of the hole is sealed. When it is supposed that the shrew's body is decayed sufficiently, the hole is opened, a twig inserted, and if this is passed over the same part the man or beast is supposed to recover. It is difficult to believe that such ancient superstitions are still observed in some of the distant country districts.

Forming Famous Giant Battery

New York Giant Battery, Hubbell and McGraw.

Some famous batteries have held forth for the Giants in days gone by. Among them were Keefe and Ewing, Ruse and Farrell, Matty and Bresnahan, Marquard and Myers, Neft and Snyder, all of whom made baseball history that will never die and whose names were bywords in the land. It has been six years now since the Giant-Yankee world series in 1923, and no battery of outstanding achievements or personal appeal has come to the Polo Grounds to take their place.

Last year, however, a kid battery under the entilements of Hubbell and Hogan began to perform in a manner to win the favor of those wise and loyal fans who mix so much joy and sorrow into their summer afternoons under the lee of Coogan's bluff.

Francis Hogan, the big catcher secured from Boston in the famous Hornsby deal, started the season last year at the Polo Grounds in a rather inauspicious way. He came heralded as a slugger, and he did hit the ball hard and often from the beginning, but his workmanship behind the plate lacked sureness and skill to say nothing of polish. But under the magic hand of McGraw this bulky young man developed amazingly. By mid-season he was rated as a corking good catcher if not a finished product, and as for his hitting, it was like unto that of Bresnahan and Snyder in their hey-day. He played in 131 games and batted 333, making 25 doubles and 10 home runs, an imposing record for any second year man. And the big boy got to be quite a catcher. He improved day by day with an aptitude that tended to make McGraw forget about his backstop worries of the last five seasons. He did seem to have a catcher who could hit, and a hitter who showed much promise of being a fine catcher.

BASEBALL NOTES

Hughie Critz, star second baseman, will captain the Cincinnati Reds this year.

Glenn Wright, the former Pittsburgh star, is the new field captain of the Brooklyn Robins.

The Virginia and Eastern Shore leagues, which failed last year, may yet be revived for 1929.

Back in 1880, C. R. Partridge hit a baseball for a distance of 334 feet 10 inches in a funko-hitting contest.

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, is entering his fifty-third year in professional baseball.

Sixteen of the 46 baseball players in the Hollywood club's spring training camp at San Diego were youngsters.

Rip Collins, now with the St. Louis Browns, has seen previous service with Detroit, New York and Cincinnati.

New owners in Baltimore sought Ty Cobb as manager but learned he would not consider the job for less than $40,000 a year.

Yankee stadium will seat 50,000 baseball fans this summer. The new seats are so far away numbers are almost necessary.

Frank Rodgers, outfielder of the Frederick team last season, has been signed by Manager Mickey Kelliher of the Hagerstown club.

Johnny Mann, shortstop for the Dallas Steers part of last season, has been sold to the Little Rock club of the Southern association.

Rabbit Maranville, veteran shortstop with the Boston Braves, says the coming National league race will be between the Cubs, Giants and Cards.

In 1891, Billy Robinson, playing second base for Cincinnati, had seven chances on a muddy field and booted them all. They came in different innings.

Eddie Moore, who campaigned with Toledo last season on option from the Boston Braves, has been acquired by purchase. He had been a Boston boldout.

The St. Louis Cardinals have purchased the Fort Wayne club of the Central league and the Scottsdale club of the Middle Atlantic league for baseball farms.

Waterloo of the Mississippi Valley league has traded Third Baseman Duncan (Spot) Grant to Springfield of the Three-I league for two rookie players to be announced later.

Making Beautiful Faces There is a great difference of opinion among beauty specialists as to methods. Some say you should rub; some say you should put; some say you should stroke. Some say the stimulation is bad for it.—Farm and Fireside.

Recalls Days of The Deceivers

West Shokan, April 4.—Erastus North, first baseman of the old Deceivers, who crossed bats with some of Ulster county's best nines in the days of '84 and several years thereafter, was in a reminiscent mood recently and gave a history of the team, from incidents deeply impressed upon his mind and by looking over a cigar box full of old clipping telling of the prowess of the team on the diamond. Here is what Mr. North had to say about the Deceivers:

This club was one of the best of its day. Members of the team were as follows: George Seimon, catcher and captain; Aaron Merrilow, pitcher; Zedec Boice, shortstop; Erastus North, first baseman; Jack Carter, second baseman; Earley North, third baseman; "Teaser" Hornbeck, right fielder; Clerk Personius, center fielder; Orv Winchell, left fielder; "Doc" Welives was umpire.

The only surviving members of the old team are George Seimon of Kingston, Earley North of West Shokan and the story teller himself, Erastus North, who resides at Watson Hollow.

Some of the teams that met the Deceivers on the diamond were Mt. Pleasant, West Hurley, Saugerties, High Falls, Cooperstown, now called Leibhardt, Lyonsville, Chichester, Brown Station, Woodstock and Kingston.

No gloves were used then, except a small buckskin one that tightly fitted the left hand of the catcher. It had no fingers in it. The gloves used nowadays are as big as the bases used in the eighties, says Mr. North.

A game that vividly stands out in the memory of Mr. North is the one between the Deceivers and Woodstock, played at West Shokan in 1891. The Woodstockers knew they were not strong enough to cope with the Deceivers so they imported talent from Saugerties. Despite their efforts the Deceivers won the game, 9-0. Earley North did the catching for the winners.

Erastus North, who says he played baseball from 1874 until 1904, possesses a cigar box full of scores of games played from 1884 to 1904. He relates playing in front of the place where he now lives on the island. He says games were played with a solid rubber ball. Basemen were permitted to throw the ball at a

“Hey, Bill!”

I don't know which cigarette this is, but it sure wins my vote!”

W. H. (Bill) McCord, of Post & McCord, steel contractors for New York's tallest skyscrapers, holds cigarette test with 94 workers.

Friend, you're smoking a certain cigarette today because you feel it's the best brand for you. And maybe you're right. But have you ever really checked up? Ever said to Old Man Habit, “Now you step out of the room. I'm going to smoke the four leading brands with brand names forgotten and just let my taste say which one is best.”

The other day one of these tests was made among the huskiest fellows in New York... those two-fisted chaps who work with steel girders, sky-high above the city streets. Their own boss, Mr. W. H. McCord, was referee and score keeper. Each cigarette was “masked” and numbered. All Mr. McCord said was, “Tell me which one you like the best.”

The result speaks for itself! 69 out of 94 men voted for OLD GOLD!

OLD GOLD wins time after time in these public tests, because smokers find them smoother and better... with not a cough in a carload.

TORCH MURDERS MYSTIFY POLICE

Two Women Victims of Similar Crime a Year Apart in New Jersey.

New York.—No two crimes in recent years offer so many grounds for comparison as the murder and attempted burning by gasoline of Margaret Brown on the night of February 20, 1928, on Bernardsville road between Somerville and Morristown, N. J., and the murder and attempted burning by gasoline of an unknown woman found recently nearby.

The murders have some marks of similarity, but there are striking dissimilarities.

Outstanding among the differences between the two murders and gasoline burnings is this:

Miss Brown was not dead when found. She was alive and moaning, when found near midnight behind what in summer was used as a refreshment stand at a picnic ground or small resort. She died the next day.

The Great Difference.

The unknown woman found a year later was shot through the top of the head.

Here is the great difference between two murders in respect to the burning:

Whoever killed Miss Brown poured gasoline over the lower part of her body and lighted the gasoline from the feet. She was found so quickly that her face and bust were as yet not disfigured by the flames, and her face was recognizable.

Whoever killed the unknown woman covered her with gasoline and fired the gasoline from the upper part of the body, with the result that the face was so badly disfigured that at this writing her identity has not been established.

The fact that Miss Brown had been burned from the feet seemed to establish incontestably that the murderer was an amateur, who had probably attacked in anger, or as the result of sex passion, and either acted with extreme haste in firing the still living woman after he had dragged her from the motor car and poured gasoline from the tank over the victim, or that he was horrified at the thought of being an actual witness of the flames destroying her features.

That the murderer was an amateur was proved when the papers of February 25, 1928, reported that the police of Bernardsville had received a letter containing a $500 note and a package of bonds worth $2,500 along with what purported to be a confession of Miss Brown's killer.

He said he had met her in Buffalo and later while she was acting as governess in New York; that he had taken her riding on February 20, when she had drawn her money and bonds preparatory to going out West to join relatives; that he had tried to take advantage of her and when she resisted he had killed her by knocking her in the head in the motor car.

The question naturally arises:

Was the killer of the unknown woman near Cranford a year later the man who killed Miss Brown? Was he the killer of Miss Brown, more hardened by crime, or hardened by the progress of a mental disease?

Problems for Probors.

The man who killed the unidentified woman a year later shot her over the left ear. He took her body from the car at a lonely spot, covered the body with gasoline and set it afire, presumably near the head. Whether he gained by adding robbery to murder cannot be established until the name of the victim is learned.

Here is the problem for those who attempt to solve mysterious crimes by analyzing the mental processes of the criminals:

Were the two murders committed by the same man who applied experience gained from his mistakes in the first murder?

Or were the murders in no wise related?

Or did the murderer of the unidentified woman know about the 1928 case and benefit by the mistakes of the first murderer by making sure of disfiguring the woman's face by applying the match to the upper part of the body?

Or was the second murderer just naturally more intelligent, or cunning, and sufficiently more callous than the first murderer, to be a witness to the disfigurement of the face of the woman who had been alive in his company a few minutes before?

Rare Treatment

Saves Man's Life

Paris.—The operation of blood transfusion direct to the heart has been successfully performed by two French physicians, Achard and Cornuand.

Describing the technique employed, in a paper read at a meeting of the Academy of Medicine, they explained that the patient, suffering from typhoid, had two relapses.

Intra-venous transfusion was out of the question, the patient being in a dying condition, and blood was injected into the cavities of the heart.

Improvement was rapid and the patient recovered.

Largest Palace

The largest royal palace in Europe is said to be that of the king of Spain, called Escorial and located near Madrid. It is said that it requires four days to go through all the rooms and apartments and that more than 100 miles would be covered in such a tour. The American Philosophical society estimates that it would take four days to make a complete visit to the palace.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, April 4 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets.)—The wholesale market on Virginia spinach was practically demoralized today. Supplies were in excess of trade requirements. In most instances price was of less importance than finding a buyer. Wholesale trading was done at chiefly 25-50 cents a bushel basket and 50c-$1 per barrel.

Virginia has become the country's chief source of supply and last week started 315 carloads to market, compared with 77 the week before.

Little activity was noted on southern new crop cabbage. Supplies were moderate and demand rather slow. White varieties packed in one and one-half bushel hampers from Florida jobbed out at 75c-$1.37 1/2. South Carolina offerings brought $1-$1.25. Texas consignments in crates of about 55-100 pounds realized $1.25-$2.25.

Cabbage shipments from Texas last week increased to 750 cars. Florida forwarded 219 cars and South Carolina 164. Movement of old crop cabbage from storage has practically stopped.

Prices of Florida tomatoes tended higher, particularly on fine quality stock. Receipts were moderate.

Forwarding of tomatoes from Florida increased to 380 cars in the second week, compared with 175 in the corresponding 1928 week. Imports from Mexico last week totaled 24 cars.

Arrivals of new crop potatoes from Florida were rather light. Maryland, however, was a little more active and prices advanced slightly. Barrels of No. 1 Spaulding Rose peddled out at $6.50-$6.75, while No. 2 stock realized $3-$3.25. Old crop potatoes were in moderate supply. The market ruled about steady, although demand was generally slow. New York upstate round whites, in bulk, sold at $1.75-$1.85 per 100 pounds.

New York city receipts of potatoes last week amounted to 322 cars. On stock filed 473 cars. Supplies were drawn from this state, Maine, Pennsylvania, Idaho and Canada. New potatoes originated in Florida, Cuba and the Bermuda Islands.
